You are invited to join us for Bach Vespers at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in New York City, now in our 42nd consecutive season, running this year from Reformation Sunday through April. Bach Vespers, the first series of its kind in the western hemisphere, is based on the German service of Vespers for which the great Lutheran composer Johann Sebastian Bach prepared and rendered the vast majority of his cantatas.

Our Bach Choir, Soloists and Bach Players (on Baroque period instruments) are outstanding professional musicians from the New York region and are directed by Cantor Rick Erickson.

Vespers is free and open to all to attend regardless of religious affiliation or beliefs. We do request a free-will offering during the service. Fourth Mondays Concerts have a $15/$10 admission at the door and offer a diverse musical presentation beyond our regular cantata renderings.

Holy Trinity is located at Central Park West and 65th Street in Manhattan.
Subways: #1 to 66 St/Lincoln Center Stop, or A,B,C,D to Columbus Circle.

We are very grateful for and depend on the gifts of our patrons to sustain this program. Please consider supporting Bach Vespers, being assured that all gifts go directly to this series at Holy Trinity. We are a not-for-profit organization, and all donations are fully tax deductible.

For more information on Bach Vespers, the artists, translations of cantatas, or to make a donation, please visit our website:

You are welcome to attend other services and events at Holy Trinity Lutheran as well, all rich in musical expression. More info at: www.holytrinitynyc.org
